

To Love and Life and Luck

August 16, 2011

John D. Ramsdell

$\text{♩} = 150$
E

Leaving a loved one is hard to do.

That's what I'm going through.

She was the love of my life, the world I knew until she came un-glued.

Care giving caus-es such an ache

when there's no give and take.

Her ups and downs came at such a rate

it makes ones heart break.

I have feel-ings

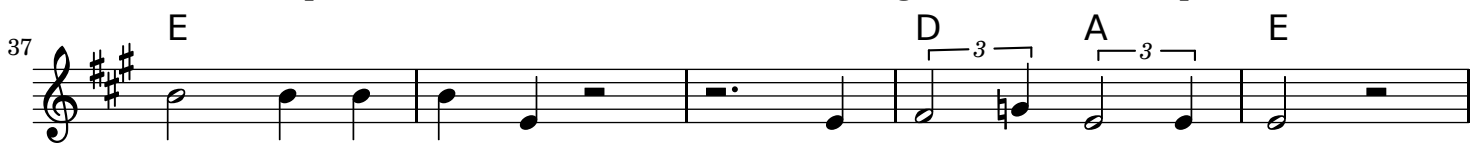

in which I must be in touch.

I'm reel-ing.

The pain hurts all too much. I'm deal-ing with ups and downs and such. I'm ap - peal - ing

to love and life and luck.

Losing a loved one is hard to do.

That's what I'm going through too.

Dad's been my mentor since when I was new and forming my world view.

A stoic man who would nev-er bail

as he watch his wife ail.

A once vi-tal man who loved to sail

is now old and frail.

66 Chorus

E D A E

I have feel-ings in which I must be in touch. I'm reel-ing. The 73

D A E D A E

pain hurts all too much. I'm dealing with ups and downs and such. I'm appealing to love and life and luck. To love and life and luck. Here's to love and life and luck.

80

E D A E D A E D A E